About the Cover Artist

(As written by Carol Dickerson-Kauffman)

Samantha Riley age 10 and Olivia Riley age 8 are the artists of the cover art. These two girls are very active with roller skating, swimming and their love of animals and children. After meeting Taali' and Sharib- then eventually Jaddah, they are convinced that their favorite breed is the Ibizan Hound. So maybe someday they will become owners of these marvelous hounds.

If you're interested in being a Third Eye cover artist, please email Kristie at kestocker@hotmail.com with a few sentence bio of yourself.

Letter from the Editor

I'm writing this after a good hiatus from showing. There were so many shows I wanted to enter, but due to personal situations, could not. I am Secretary of kennel club in Michigan, St. Clair Kennel Club, and our shows were in mid-September. Of course, all members were on hand working in their respective positions and it wasn't til I was in the building with the empty rings at 7am did I realize how much I missed the dog world. At that point, I would have taken a Chihuahua in the ring just to be part of it all! I hadn't been to a show in 4 months and when I felt the strong urge to jump in that ring, I knew where my passion lied. I saw friends I haven't seen in awhile and they were all asking where I'd been. It felt good to be missed.

At that point, I thought about the sport of showing dogs. It's not just a sport, it's a way of life, a culture if you will. I got to sit back and watch everyone else scurry around, tending to their dogs, grooming, buying bait, thumbing hastily through a catalog... It seemed like everyone was in their own world, concentrating on how to get that "ribbon." I heard chatter of people breaking majors, using the wrong clippers or of a judge that put up a nice dog. I would guess the majority of these people were there for the passion of the sport, the passion they have for their dogs. Why else would they do it? You usually don't 'make' money in dog shows (besides being a professional handler or groomer) and certainly you lose more than you financially gain. So why do it? For me, it's the exhilaration of being in the ring trying to make a dog look its best. I love the feeling of competition and having fun with my dogs at the same time. Why do you do it? Why do you like to enter the Obedience or Agility ring? Why even enter lure coursing? Whatever your reasons, I'm sure it all boils down to the love of your dogs.

Nyra (14 months) & Kristie

I met quite a few spectators at our show that had never been to a dog show. I smiled and happily tried to explain what I could to help them understand. They were in awe at all the blood, sweat and tears that people put into their dogs appearance and well being. They couldn't believe the big RVs and expensive equipment people owned just for dog shows. I just chuckled.

Gee, what we won't do for a passion, huh?

Beezerly yours,

Kristie Stocker

IHCUS 2007 Calendar (published by the IHCUS fundraising committee)

Due to the overwhelming interest in another Ibizan calendar, the IHCUS fundraising committee will be taking on this project. We will be publishing a 2007 full-color Ibizan Hound calendar that will feature your dogs, just like the previous versions.

If you would like your dog to appear in the calendar, please email photos to puppyinfo@cox.net. The deadline to submit photos is November 1. Early submission is encouraged.

You can submit photos of each dog you own, but please do not submit more than two photos of each dog. At least one photo of each dog you submit will appear in the calendar. Cute, candid photos are encouraged, although stacked shots are welcome. Contact Lisa Puskas for her snail mail address, if needed, but email photos are much preferred. Be sure to include the dog's name, owner, and breeder if you would like that information published. Photos must be clear and of good reproduction quality. Fuzzy photos won't publish well.

Ordering info will be posted at a later date.

IHCUS Logo Pins and Third Eye Back Issues for Sale

For the tiny price of $10.00, beautiful lapel pins are now available to IHCUS members and those who love the breed! (Plus a small fee of $1.00 for shipping and 50¢ for each additional pin!) Items are shipped uninsured. If you would like insurance, add $1.30 per order. All profits from sales of these pins go to IHCUS General Fund.

IHCUS has created lapel pins that feature the Club logo of both smooth and wire hair Ibizan Hounds. They are one inch long by one-half inch tall, in a triangle shape, with a lapel button clasp back. These are NOT the club pins you received when you joined IHCUS. If you are a collector of pins, you might have the other pins IHCUS had available over the years. The black-and-gold square pin has the Nan Kilgore drawing of a reclining Ibizan and "The Ibizan Hound Club of the United States" written around the outside. (This pin is what members now receive when joining our club.) There was also a black-and-gold pin with a cutout of a reclining Ibizan Hound with "IHCUS" written under the dog. And there was a pin with a cutout of a red/white reclining Ibizan with "Ibizan Hound" written under the dog. You can order the logo pin online through a secure PayPal link. When PayPal asks for our email address, enter puppyinfo@cox.net. To order by mail, contact Rose Bednarski with how many pins you would like to order. She will tell you the total price and mailing address. Make checks payable to IHCUS.

Also available- past issues of "The Third Eye" newsletter. Price is $5.00 each. Contact Rose Bednarski for more information on which she still has & ordering information.

Membership Committee Report

Reported by Teddy Burke

Hi Everyone,

Our report is brief.

1. The review of the IHCUS application for membership is ongoing. To date I have two recommendations from members. More are welcome.

Note to potential sponsors: The days are gone when the most casual association with an applicant would be sufficient. When you sponsor somebody please ensure you really have sufficient personal contact with them. Face to face is ideal. If an applicant approaches you for sponsorship and you feel you don't know them well enough, help them yourself and suggest other members in their area who might be able to interact with them. Refer them to the Membership Committee and we will help them too.

If you live close to an applicant please consider contacting them and introducing yourself. Perhaps you could meet them at a show or performance event.

Reported by Katie Belz

Thanks to everyone who submitted their CHIC ballot!! It passed with an overwhelming majority! This is a large step for the breed.

Congrats to all!!

The paperwork has been submitted to the Canine Health Information Center and I am waiting for their approval. Once I have any more information it will be in next quarter's Third Eye and posted on the IHCUS newsgroup.

The approved health tests are:

Hip Dysplasia: OFA or PENN Hip
Thyroid: OFA Thyroid
Deafness: BAER
Eye: CERF

While I am waiting for CHICs approval, please start submitting the above tests to their appropriate institutions. The Ibizans who have completed the CHIC requirements and are granted a CHIC number will be published in the Health Section of the Third Eye!

More Info to follow as I receive it!

Rescue Committee Report

Reported by Rose Bednarski

Hi everyone!

Just a reminder that IHCUS rescue is to help ANY Ibizan that needs a home. It does not have to be just for those Ibizans that are in a shelter or a bad situation that need help. I have a list of people looking to adopt an Ibizan Hound that has been rescued or just needs a new home. Some are looking for an adult Ibizan, not just a puppy. If you have a Ibizan Hound that you would like to find a home for, contact me. Since these are NOT an rescue situation, I just refer the names I have of people looking for a Ibizan Hound, with the person wanting to place their adult dog. This way, it's a happy ending for everyone, people and dog.

Rescue has been notified numerous times about dogs that are Ibizan Hound on PetFinders.com. Most are not Ibizan mixed. If you find one that you think is a purebred, please let me know.

"If It Should Be"

If it should be that I grow weak,
and pain should keep me from my sleep,
then you must do what must be done,
for this last battle cannot be won.

you will be sad, I understand,
don't let your grief then stray your hand,
for this day more than all the rest,
your love for me must stand the test.

we've had so many happy years,
what is to come can hold no fears,
you'd not want me to suffer so,
the time has come, please let me go.

take me where my need they'll tend,
and please stay with me until the end,
hold me firm and speak to me,
until my eyes no longer see.

I know in time that you will see,
the kindness that you did for me,
although my tail its last has waged,
from pain and suffering I've been saved.

Please do not grieve,
it must be you who had this painful thing to do,
we've been so close, all these years,
don't let your heart hold back it's tears.

What the Judges Think... (Submitted by Kristie Stocker)

In March, the first annual Beezerfest was held and the planners anticipated a large turnout. To help the Ibizan fanciers understand what the judges see and get their opinion on our breed, they were emailed the questions below. Three judges responded quite graciously after judging our breed in Louisville. Their answers are reprinted straight from their emails and have not been changed in any way. I hope this helps contribute some interesting discussion among the fancy.

How long have you been approved to judge our breed?

How many times (approximately) have you judged our breed?

How would you compare Ibizans when you first judged the breed and now?

What are positive aspects you see in the movement? What are negative aspects?

What are positives you see in the overall structure? What are negatives?

What is the easiest characteristic to judge in our breed? Most difficult?

What, as breeders, is the most important thing you would like to see improved?

Mr. Robert S. Forsyth

I was approved to do all Hounds eighteen years ago but its difficult to say how many times that I have judged Ibizan's as I have not kept track, at a guess probably over a hundred. The improvement in the breed since I first judged them is impressive and breeders should be complemented but there is still a long way to go. Missing teeth are becoming rare although I still find far to many. Heads are quite uniform and of good type. In regard to movement I think rears are about the same but fronts are in dire need of help and have been since I first judged the breed. Over all structure and type remains in good shape but shoulder angulation, feet and depth of brisket need to be improved. I realize the gene pool is not that large but breeders must concentrate in these areas.

Dr. Eric Liebes

How long have you been approved to judge our breed?

15 years, as a breeder, Ibizans were in the first 3 the breeds I was approved for when I first applied to be a judge.

How many times (approximately) have you judged our breed?

I really don't know. 20 or 30 times, I suppose. The most memorable entries were the day after the Ibizan Hound National in Albuquerque, in 1994, a large entry at Del Valle in about 1993, and this 2006 Louisville entry.

How would you compare Ibizans when you first judged the breed and now?

I'm going to go back a little further, to 1981 shortly after the breed was accepted for Group competition. I got my first Ibizan that year. Since our beginnings in AKC competition the "good" dogs have been the same as today: sound, moderate, athletic, pretty, and built uniquely for typical Ibizan Hound style movement. The "good" ones were also around the top of the Standard in size, though some examples at the small end were seen then and are not seen now. The top winners from 1981-4 could walk into the ring today & do just fine. On the negative side, what we saw then (and to a lesser degree when I started judging in 1991) were some very large dogs (easily over 30 inches) and some dogs who seemed to take the words of our old standard "loose and detached at the withers" a little too seriously. In other words, many of the examples in the ring in the 1980's seemed to be held together (barely) by rubber bands.

The other big difference in the breed today is the presence of wires and broken coats (heterozygous wires). I saw my first wires in 1982 at Santa Barbara but they never got bred. I did not see any again until the early 90's when I saw the results of some early importing efforts (which I was glad to see happen). Along with these wires came some very shallow chests & small ears. I'm glad to see that we've moved away from those faults. I think our breeders have converged on a more standard size (which is at the top of the range in our Standard) and more consistent moderation in the breed. This is a good trend; some of the early big winners were built more like Afghans than Ibizans, especially in length & bend of the second thigh in the rear.

What are positive aspects you see in the movement? What are negative aspects?

What are positives you see in the overall structure? What are negatives?

I'll take these together since they are inseparable. Our standard describes a unique front structure which produces a unique front movement, also consistent with the standard. We have a prominent sternum, a well laid back shoulder, and a relatively upright upper arm. This results in the deepest point of the chest (as deep or nearly as deep as the elbow) being behind the elbow, because the elbow is positioned forward on the upright upper arm. The movement which results from this construction includes “joint flexion” a tendency to lift as part of the front reach. This characteristic, along with recognizable head, ears, pigmentation, and color typify Ibizan hound type and make the Ibizan Hound what it is.

In the ring I hope to see Ibizans that can demonstrate good ground covering gait with lifting reach and balance while being sound down & back. Breeding a lifting front which is sound (parallel or converging, coming at with elbows well tucked in) is the hardest challenge in breeding Ibizans. I’m happy to say that most of my entry in Louisville, and certainly those who were bred competitive showed this “hard to breed” trait.

What is the easiest characteristic to judge in our breed? Most difficult?

In a good entry (like this one in Louisville) judging is easy. As always there is a tradeoff between type & soundness, between great side gait and proper down & back. This entry was no exception until the breed level where there were good examples of both strong proper movement and good type. That makes the judge’s job a pleasure.

What, as breeders, is the most important thing you would like to see improved?

Ibizan breeders need to keep on the straight & narrow of preserving breed type in Ibizans. As I noted above, this means typical movement (with joint flexion) along with proper size, outline, clean (truncated cone) heads & good ears. The temptation of breeding a generic dog for the show ring must be avoided. Remember a good Ibizan Hound is not just a rack for presenting the ears. The dogs must demonstrate Ibizan Hound uniqueness & type in all aspects.

Mrs. Betty-Anne Stenmark

I have been judging Ibizan Hounds for almost 20 years now and have watched their development and improvement with interest. I have always been fascinated with the breed, and think them most beautiful to the eye. I remember fairly large entries when I did them at Westminster in 1996, and on the Louisville weekend a few years back. I have judged them in Canada, Sweden and Germany as well.

When I began judging the breed it almost hurt to watch them go around the ring. There was so much wasted motion up front, hackneyed gait was the norm. In recent years overall structure and movement has improved immeasurably and in a breed where the gene pool could best be described as a puddle, I realize this was not easy to accomplish. I applaud the efforts of some dedicated breeders.

When I first looked at a class I was looking for an Ibizan who’s proportions were correct; “slightly longer than tall.” A typey dog with the distinctive head and expression, and who had “clean-cut lines...lithe and racy...deerlike elegance...strong, without appearing heavily muscled...a hound of moderation...not extreme or exaggerated.” Your Standard is very clear, quite well written, and not difficult to follow.

When you have judged for a very long time, as I have, it will be 30 years for me next year, you get away from judging parts and you judge the whole dog. I am going to quote from the introduction to the English Cocker Spaniel Illustrated Standard which was written by Mrs. Anne Rogers Clark, who needs no introduction to any of you I’m sure. What she has written can be applied to any breed of dog being judged. In her summation I quote, “What you have done is to judge the overall picture, made your first cut on type and rewarded the soundness of your typical specimens. An untypical cocker that is sound is useless. A typical cocker that is sound is priceless.” To those of us who breed dogs this is valuable information to remember when selecting the puppies to keep for show and breeding from a litter, which is the first form of judging any one of us does.

I had an observer in my ring, someone whom I think is a good breeder and judge of another rare hound breed. After judging someone came up to her to tell her that “movement is important in this breed.” My observer was amused as she and I had long discussions in the center of the ring and much of that centered on selecting the soundest dogs amongst the Ibizans of good type. We must all be cognizant that it is the puppies who are the typiest who are the most valuable, and from those we must choose the soundest of them to move forward with in our breeding plans.

There were a number of very sound Ibizans shown to me that day. Their soundness did not go unnoticed. But to my eye these dogs were not always as typey as they needed to be, they were rather plain, in my opinion. Certainly dogs like this can be useful in a breeding program and would be the ones I would select to breed to a very typey specimen, hoping for that marvelous puppy who is both typey and sound. The fascination in breeding, something that I think keeps us all going, is the quest for the beautiful and typey specimen who is both balanced and sound on the go.

There is very little educational material available on the Ibizan. I urge you and your club to get busy and put together an Illustrated Standard and amplification of the Ibizan Hound. You do a disservice to your breed by not providing one to all judges of your breed, as well as those aspiring to judge your breed. It is also a valuable tool for breeders. Yes it can be a difficult project to put together but one well worth the time and effort. You will see overall improvement in the judging of your breed if you provide some of the tools needed for judges to learn the nuances of breed type. There are plenty of good ones around to use as an example. I was very impressed with the new Borzoi Illustrated Standard for one.

It was my pleasure to judge this entry and I wish each of you all the best of luck in both the whelping box and the show ring.

Gazette Column: RV'ing it (Submitted by Bonnie Fleming)

Many of us RV it. Either motorhome or trailer are the usual options, but I also see tents out there. Since I have been doing the RV bit for about 30 years, thought I would pass on some hard earned experience. I started out by sleeping in the back of my pickup, graduated to small trailers in various sizes, including 5th wheels, but have also owned motorhomes, also of varying types and sizes. Personally, I prefer a motorhome. I find it easier for a woman alone to handle, especially I CANNOT back up a trailer. I find it easier for me to load, drive and maintain than a trailer, but lots of women out there will definitely disagree with me. If you want to get a good argument going, at a show or campground, just ask opinions re: motorhome vs trailers. It is really a personal decision, and I won't get that discussion going here.

But there is one thing that applies, no matter which rig which you choose. Don't overload! Just because you now have a closet, you still don't need 6 outfits for a 2 show weekend. Neither does hubby need a duplicate of every tool he owns going along. I've gotten along just fine with a cell phone (to call for help!) a pair of pliers and a screwdriver. Pare down what you take with you. You have the kitchen sink. Not everything else is necessary. For you out there who already have RV's. and winter now here, do some serious house cleaning and "Mission Organization" sorting. Be particularly careful in regards to weight when towing. Just because the salesman says you can tow that behemoth with your present auto/truck, don't believe him. RV salesmen are often left over used car salesmen. Get the specs on the rig and go under weight, rather than crowding the limits. I have been under powered and over trailered in a couple of situations and had a terrible time getting extricated. My most recent experience resulted in a totaled trailer and a damaged truck. Motorhomes can also be overloaded. With gas prices the way they are, and probably getting worse, keeping your rig properly cared for, and correctly loaded, is not only a safety factor, but just common sense.

Whichever rig you choose, good roadside insurance is mandatory. I have had my share of flat tires, kaput starters, whistling temperature guags and miscellaneous minor fracasas. The best tool I carry is my cell phone and emergency service card! I have also found out (the hard way) that kicking the tire only hurts my toe and the vehicle could care less. I have found tow truck drivers to be most helpful and really, really nice. It's helpful for them if you have good information about your rig. They can be much more efficient if they know as much as possible about your vehicle and your situation.

A woman traveling alone (which many of us are) has to be more careful. I plan my routes, stay on main roads and always go into nicer campgrounds at night. Even though I travel with large dogs, I am cautious. Not afraid. Just cautious. I keep my fuel guage on the top half so I can choose where and when I fill up, and I don't travel after dark except in an emergency. I may get home a day later, but I get there, all right side up and in one piece. A few weeks ago, I was informed by one elderly gentleman that women who RV alone are entirely too independent, and by another, that I was brave resourceful. Neither one, really, I just like to show my dogs in relative comfort and camping on the grounds provides that.

It also provides a wonderful social contact that I shall miss. The long summer evenings when we are all out walking our dogs and having as much fun as they are.. The smell of barbecues hangs in the air and it all becomes very special times and memories. For those of us doing many shows a year, the RV means that we can travel in comfort and our dogs have a familiar couch to sleep on. It also gives us lots to talk about. Running out of propane AND battery power at 2 AM because the furnace ran all night. The hot water tank that erupted. The lowered electric step that went down the highway at 60 per and, luckily, didn't get hung up on anything. The little old man who tried to help me (I knew more than he did) and asked me if I was married or happy. The great friends who I love to travel with. Those that I would not travel again with for love or money. Regretfully, I have decided not to replace my trailer. I have all kinds of good reasons. Hopefully they will last past the spring RV shows.

I wish you all safe traveling, funny stories to tell around the campgrounds, and can I come and join you and reminisce?

Finn is my first Ibizan Hound and the first dog I ever raised from a puppy. I still remember the brief panic I had when he trotted up to me and spit out a puppy tooth !

I want to thank both Claudette Papenberg and Sandy Vollum for mentoring me in Ibizans and showing in general. Finn easily completed his AKC championship and has since been enjoying patrolling the yard and loafing on the sofas at home.

Finn was not even 2 years old when I realized he and I both needed another Ibizan. Lucky for me that Claudette happened to have Finn's 1 ½ year old half sister, Killian, available.

The two hit it off immediately and I can't imagine life without the both of them. I couldn't have asked for sweeter, more playful and fun companions. Although they are now both veterans, neither Finn nor Killian has shown signs of slowing down. I'm looking forward to enjoying several more years with them both.
